REFLECTION

We pray in the Creed “I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins”. In the content of today’s Gospel, we are given some understanding about what we profess to believe. Christ baptises with the “Holy Spirit and with fire.” Isn’t it strange that we receive baptism with the pouring of water and yet we believe that in doing so, we are baptised also with fire?. Normally fire and water are complete opposites. Both can be quite terrifying if we think of Noah and the flood or the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah by fire, but life giving in small doses, a glass of water or a fire for heat

We learn something here about our own baptisms with the Holy Spirit. There is something of the terrifying extremes brought together in an unimaginable way that is absolutely devastating for the sin within us, drowning it, immolating it as a purifying fire and at the same time animating us with the very life of God that is overwhelming, delicate, burning and gentle all at the same time. Fr Sean

Anniversary of First Mass (Bishop Pompallier)

The founder of the Catholic Church in Aotearoa New Zealand was a young French bishop, Jean Baptiste François Pompallier. Born in Lyons, France on 11 December 1801 he was ordained a priest in 1829 and in 1836 was appointed Vicar Apostolic ('Bishop') of Western Oceania which covered a huge area of Polynesia and Melanesia, including many Pacific Islands and New Zealand.

The Bishop sailed from France in December 1836 with a missionary band of four priests and three brothers of the Society of Mary. One priest died at sea. A priest and a brother were left at each of the islands of Wallis and Futuna to begin mission work there. After brief stays at Tahiti, Tonga, Rotuma and Sydney, he arrived at the Hokianga harbour on 10 January 1838.

The first Mass was celebrated at Tōtara Point on 13 January 1838.
